

The Lion Who Saw Himself in the Water

by Idries Shah

Illustrated by Ingrid Rodriguez

Now, once upon a time there was a lion and his name was Share the Lion. And he was king of all the animals in the jungle.

He had a lovely golden mane on his head, all furry — just like hair, only furry and golden. And he had a lovely golden coat. He used to go about and say “Grrrrrrrrrrrrrr” because that’s how lions talk.

But not all the animals knew that he talked like that.
And some of them, when they heard him say "Grrrrrrrrrrrrr," were a little frightened, and they ran away.

And soon, because they saw some of their animal friends running, all the animals got a bit frightened, and they all started to run away.

ABOUT HOOPOE BOOKS BY IDRIES SHAH

"...a series of children's books that have captivated the hearts and minds of people from all walks of life. The books are tales from a rich tradition of storytelling from Central Asia and the Middle East.

Stories told and retold to children, by campfire and candlelight, for more than a thousand years. Through repeated readings, these stories provoke fresh insight and more flexible thought in children. Beautifully illustrated."

NEA Today: The Magazine of the National Education Association

"These books share not only wonderful folk stories from a region not often represented in current children's literature, but there is also an innate potential in them for supporting skills such as prediction, critical thinking, and social/emotional development skills of demonstrating empathy and conflict resolution. This is all done with humor, bold attractive art and a strategic use of vocabulary."

Laurie Noe, Prof. Early Childhood Education, Housatonic Community College, Bridgeport, CT

"These stories, with improbable events that lead the reader's mind into new and unexplored venues, allow her or him to develop more flexibility and to understand this complex world better."
